The Montana District Key Club Board has been evaluating the role of the advisors at District Convention, and other district events. The following are guidelines that we are recommending for advisors during this year's District Convention.

Room checks should be performed at curfew (midnight). Advisors are recommended to go in pairs, with one male and one female. Make sure that all of the people that are assigned to that room are in that room, and confirm that either visually or, if in shower, verbally. It is also recommended that the advisor actually enter the room and do a quick, stand in place, search.

Please do not have Key Clubbers change rooming assignments—if there is a need please let us know at the District—Joe Burst, Ed Leland.

During general sessions, workshop sessions, and caucuses it is asked that the advisors check to see that all members from your club or division are present.

We also encourage advisors to help chaperone events:
We need adults to help us with our events, such as:
Talent show, and Montana Madness
Dance
Caucus rooms
Workshops (please feel free to attend, the adult presence really helps)
As an advisor it would be very helpful if you would observe the Key Clubber attire to assure that it meets the dress code. Please note that the dress code applies to all convention attendees, which includes the adults.

Advisors are reminded that they may not campaign for any candidate. Also they may not ask questions during caucuses." The District would very much like to thank all of you for taking time out of your busy schedule to support our Key Clubbers.
